MR. T. BOYCE,

BEGS leave sincerely to thank his friends for their very liberal patronage during the last 12 months, and respectfully assures them that he hopes through his unabating endeavors to merit a continuance of their favors.

He has the pleasure to acquaint them and the public that, with the view to render his establishment as useful as possible, he will on the 13th instant change his residence from the Fort to that cheerfully situated House (at the foot of Malabar Hill), in which he formerly exhibited Gas lights; and that he will at the same time transfer his school to a convenient and airy upper roomed House in Rampart Row, situate next door to Colonel LLEWELLIN'S.

His number of Boarders is limited to six young Gentlemen, who will accompany their Master to and from school daily; and his dwelling house has the peculiar advantage of overlooking that part of Backbay which is not only the most convenient for sea bathing of any upon the shores of this island, but is also so much the safest, that, with the slightest care, it is impossible for any catastrophe to be apprehended.

The play grounds and gardens are extensive, well shaded with fruit and flower trees; and the former are (as the latter shortly shall be) safely enclosed.

MRS. BOYCE has arranged to accommodate 5 young Ladies of from 4 to 9 years old. They will have all their instructions in the country.

THE COURIER,

OCTOBER 5, 1818.

Since the issuing of our extra paper of Thursday, we have been most obligingly favored with a few English papers down to the 27th June. Their columns are principally filled with accounts relative to the general election. We have used our best exertions to give as ample extracts from them as the time has allowed us.

We are sorry to find that the plague continues to commit dreadful ravages in Africa. Strong precautionary measures of quarantine have been adopted by the Governors of Malta and Gibraltar to prevent the introduction of this dreadful disorder amongst their garrisons.

An article relative to Spain represents the public finances of that kingdom to be in most dreadful disorder. The Minister Garay's system of taxation had entirely failed, and it was expected he must retire. The armies were unpaid and clamorous for their arrears.

The heat in Ireland, Scotland and Jersey, and in almost the whole of the north of of Europe, is stated in a Genoa Gazette, to be excessive this summer.

Accounts from St. Helena mention the arrival there of the Apollo, Tarbutt, from this port on the 28th June; she would proceed on her voyage the 2d July. The Anna Robertson from Calcutta arrived at St. Helena the 2d June and sailed again in a few days after.

Bastide, Jaussion and Colard, three of the murderers of M. Fauldes, were executed at Albi on the 3d June.

The Lord Sidmouth, and Carmarthen from this port, arrived off Deal 15th June; the Huddart and Herald, also from this port, arrived about the same time; and likewise the Thalia, Surrey, Northumbrian, Lord Wellington and Cornwall from Calcutta.

The Hannah, Heathorne, sailed from Liverpool for this port on the 27th June.

The Jemima, we are informed, would also return hither, and it was intended she should sail about the 8th July.

By proclamations issued respectively by the Governors of the Mauritius and of Bourbon, we observe that the commerce between those islands has, in consequence of orders from home on an understanding between the English and French Governments, been placed upon a footing of a perfect reciprocity. All articles whatever may be exported and imported between the islands: European articles, for consumption only; articles from other places, for consumption or to be warehoused, subject to certain duties.

The Victory, for London, will not get away before to-morrow sennight; and letters to be forwarded by her will be received at Messrs. Forbes and Co's. office until next Saturday evening.

We are without any authentic account respecting the progress of the epidemic disease at Surat, and we therefore are led to indulge a hope that it has not broken out there in a very formidable way. It is still prevalent here, and we are concerned we cannot report that it has diminished much during the last week.

At the meeting of the Literary Society on Tuesday, three papers were presented from different members. The first is some account of Cutch by Captain Macmurdo: little has been hitherto known respecting this district; and Captain Macmurdo's paper, at the same time that it fills up a blank in the geography of India, and connects the survey of Guzerat with the branches of the Indus, gives a very lively description of the peculiar manners and customs of the people, and adverts to some interesting points in the natural history of the country. Infanticide, we are sorry to say, prevails in Cutch to a great extent, and the number of female children who are annually murdered from this abominable practice, Captain Macmurdo supposes cannot be less than one thousand; it is to be hoped that the benevolent interference of the British government will be attended with the same success there, which has so happily crowned its efforts in Guzerat. Captain Macmurdo's paper is a valuable addition to our Indian knowlege, and we are particularly glad to observe in this paper, and in one lately presented by Captain Dangerfield, some attempts to illustrate the natural history; a subject as yet but very little explored in this country.

The second paper contains some observations by Captain Vans Kennedy on the history and failure of the scheme of an universal religion attempted to be introduced by Acbar. The paper is written with great perspicuity, and affords some translations, from native accounts, of the religious disputations held by Acbar's order, and in his presence, between the learned of the several sects.

The last paper is an account by Captain Elwood of the caste of Nayheas, a singular race of people, who derive their origin from five brothers who fled to the Concan from the neighbourhood of Oudipoor.

We have great pleasure in inserting the following.

LADIES & GENTLEMEN,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th inst. I assure you I can scarcely adequate to express the pride and satisfaction I feel at the very kind manner in which you have been pleased to allude to my conduct during our passage from England to this presidency.

If any feeling exists on my mind stronger than another, it is the persuasion that the unanimity and happiness which so universally prevailed, during a voyage of somewhat unusual length, was alone attributable to you; and if I, in my anxious endeavours to meet your general and individual approbation, have been so fortunate as to succeed, I have accomplished the most ardent wish of my heart.

Permit me, Ladies and Gentlemen, to return you my sincere acknowledgements and thanks for the very polite manner you have presented me with a piece of plate. I accept it with sentiments of gratitude and respect, and I need not add, it will ever be preserved by me as a testimony and pledge of your regard towards me, which neither time nor distance will ever efface from my mind.

Wishing you individually every happiness and enjoyment you can possibly desire,

I remain,

COLOMBO.

AUGUST 29TH 1818.

Our reports from the Interior continue to be so extremely favourable, that every day increases our hope of seeing the Kandyan rebellion brought to a happy termination. From the eastern extremity of Saffragan all round to the Dedero Oya in the 7 Korles and the mountainous frontiers of Matelle the whole country is perfectly tranquil. The last letters from Major MacDonald and the Resident in Ouva describe a train of uninterrupted success.

Godogedera Dessave on the night of the 17th intercepted on their route to Weyaloova the adopted son of Moogoonoomata Mohattale, Kande Koonboore Badderalla and 4 others; But the most gratifying intelligence is the extraordinary success which Major Coxon has had in capturing Rebels of consequence; A party sent out in consequence of information received by that Officer returned on the 15th, bringing in Prisoners the Maha Betmy and Basnaicka Nileme of Kateragam, with the Godogedera Mohattla and Deyongampaha Vidahn. Two tu ked Elephants, seven firelocks and other property belonging to the Temple had been also taken: The Prisoners are all persons of consequence, but the two first named have been most prominent leaders of the Rebels ever since the beginning of the Insurrection. A reward of 500 Rix Dollars each was offered in the Proclamation for their apprehension, and Godogedera Mohattale is described as only second to Kappitipola in power and activity to do mischief.

The capture of these rancorous enemies to the British Government must not be regarded only as a proof of the ability with which Major Coxon arranged, or the Subaltern Officer executed the plan of their surprise. Great praise is no doubt due to both, but the complete success which attended the operation must be in some measure attributed to another and most important cause. When the number of unsuccessful attempts to seize the persons of any of the Chief Rebels is recollected, we must be satisfied that one of the greatest difficulties attending such enterprizes is removed. The general opinion of the people is in fact changed, they are no longer to be enticed to bear all their present hardships by the fallacious hopes held out to them of a distant success: They have lost all confidence in these delusive promises, and the Chief Rebels are therefore no longer under the guardian care of a whole population, always on the alert to warn them of an approaching danger.

By the latest accounts from Capt. Fletcher it appears that the people of Kaloophani & other parts of Kandapalla had shewn a disposition to submit and it was strongly reported that Kattakali Mohattale had left the Province of Ouva to join Kappitipola in Mattelle. In fine the Rebellion in Ouva may be said to be quite extinguished.

There is even a show of some favorable change in the sentiments of the people of Walapany, for Hangeranketty Vidahn is now at Madulla in that Province where all the inhabitants of the Royal Village have submitted to him.

A letter from Capt. Mylius dated the 22d Inst. at Illekawelle in the 7 Korles describes the people of that neighbourhood to be all quiet & well disposed with a very few exceptions to a considerable extent around. They are assisting in bringing in grain & have promised to remove all obstructions on the roads.

THE 28TH AUCUST, 1818.

Mr. J. Dewar, Register of the Provincial Court of Appeal and Court of Circuit for the Division of Patna.

Mr. F. Clarke, Assistant to the Magistrate of the City of Dacca.

Mr. H. T. Owen, ditto to ditto of the City of Moorshedabad.

Mr. R. Walker, ditto to ditto of Allyghur.

Mr. J. Campbell, ditto to ditto of Hooghly.

Mr. H. S Oddfield, ditto to the Register of the Provincial Court of Appeal and Court of Circuit for the Division of Moorshedabad.

We have no intelligence from Bietool of any military movement. The repulse at the Pass in the mountains, by Major Cumming, appears to have deterred the insurgents from any further encroachment, and they have very wisely kept to their fastnesses ever since.

At Nagpore and elsewhere every thing is in a state of tranquillity.

Sir John Malcolm with Bajee Rao, the 2d Bombay Grenadier Battalion, and Escorts, Cavalry and Infantry, of Madras troops, arrived at Madesser on the 7th ultimo. They were met by the 2d Battalion 19th Bengal I. which was to relieve the Bombay corps, and accompany Bajee Rao, whose destination is said to be Benares, via, either Delhi or Muttra. The present state of the country renders his progress very slow, the rains having fallen in great quantity, and they are much heavier than has been known in that quarter for several years.

On the evening of the 28th of July a detachment of the Rajpootna Force stormed and took with little loss the town & outworks of Madhoor poor, the place which Meer Khan so often attacked in vain. The Thakoor and his people had retired into the Fort which was not expected to hold out long.

ENGLISH EXTRACTS.

Extract of a letter from Lisbon, March 20th.—"By a vessel just arrived in our harbour, from Rio de Janeiro, we have received the very extraordinary news that the Emperor of China, and all the great Mandarins of his Court, have embraced Christianity, which religion is henceforth to be considered as the established one in China, to the total exclusion of all others. The vessel has on board two Portuguese Missionaries, one a Jesuit, and the other a Monk of the third Order of St. Francis, who are bearers of rich presents, and also a letter written by his Chinese Majesty to the Pope, acknowledging his supremacy! Nothing could exceed the rejoicings which took place at Rio de Janeiro on this occasion. The city was illuminated three nights in succession, and their Most Faithful Majesties, with every branch of the Royal Family, paid their respect to Monsignore, the Archbishop of Demetrio, Nuncio Apostolic to the Brazilian Court. The city of Pekin is erected into a Patriarchate; the Patriarch is a Portuguese Monk, from Macao, of the Order of St. Francis. Pekin has also an Inquisition, which is under the direction of some Portuguese Inquisitors of Goa. The education of all classes is invested in the hands of the Jesuits, as well as the high Officers of State. The Confessor of the Emperor is a Portuguese Jesuit, and is declared by law the next person in the Empire to the Sovereign, and an unlimited power invested in his hands. The Missionaries brought for the Court of Brazils some magnificent pieces of China, on which is depicted the audience of Lord Amherst with his Chinese Majesty; and those facetious Orientalists have had the audacity to caricature that splendid Embassy which would have done honor to the first and most brilliant Court in Europe."

THE CHAMPION.

JUNE 14, 1818.

CONSISTORY COURT, DOCTORS' COMMONS.

SULLIVAN, GUARDIAN, AGAINST MARIA SULLIVAN, OTHERWISE OLDAKER, FALSELY CALLING HERSELF SULLIVAN.

This question of Nullity of Marriage, on the ground of minority, fraud, misnomer, and non-consent on the part of the Right Honourable John Sullivan, father and natural guardian of John Augustus Sullivan, the minor, who was married by banns, at St. Olave's, Southwark, on the 15th of July, 1816, to Maria Holmes Oldaker, natural daughter of Thomas Oldaker, huntsman to the Berkeley hounds, came on this day for sentence.

Sir W. Scott in a judgment which occupied an hour and a quarter, considered particularly the two objections of conspiracy and misnomer—With regard to the former, he held that no conspiracy on the part of the friends and relations of the Lady had been made out. Touching the latter, he thought the Act had been satisfied. Being an illegitimate child, she was strictly entitled to no surname, but the law allowed her such as she might acquire and use. The pregnancy having taken place four months before the marriage, she was, to prevent scandal, called after the father; but it being suggested when the banns were to be published, that spurious offspring were commonly named after the mother, she added the name of Holmes, and, as the Learned Judge observed, "not for the purpose of fraud, for it could deceive no one, but to make security doubly sure" she was married as Maria Holmes Oldaker. The Court, he remarked, would not countenance any idle levity or fraud in these matters, neither would it construe them with pedantic strictness when no deceit wat intended or could operate. The Learned Judge, therefore, pronounced for the validity of the marriage of John Augustus Sullivan with Maria Holmes Oldaker and that he do make her home, and treat her with conjugal affection, certifying the same to that Court next Term.

An Aide-de Camp of the Marquis of Hastings is on his passage to England, in the Lord Sidmouth packet, from the Mediterranean, which may be expected hourly, having left Gibraltar on the 19th ult. He brings great news from India and was put on board the packet from his Majesty's ship Tigris.—Cornwall Paper.

There are various circumstances which tend to corroborate, the accounts lately given of a visit being paid to Buonaparte by one of our sailors. The following is an extract of a letter received this morning from Brighton; and and it is evident that something important has occurred in that island, to occasion the interdiction of all intercourse with it.

"This morning the Surrey East Indiaman, Capt. Oldham, passed by our Roads. The Purser landed and delivered the ship's mails from Calcutta, of the 7th January, and from the Cape of Good Hope of the 25th of March into our Post Office. The ship, on arriving off St. Helena was hailed by the Congueror 74 guns, cruising off the island, with which communication was forbidden."

The North Pole Expedition.—It appears from a letter received at Lloyd's this morning from Lerwick, that the Expedition to the North Pole arrived at the Shetland Islands on the 1st April, and the 1st of May, and sailed again the 3d and 10th of May; the following is a copy of the letter received:—

"Port of Lerwick, Shetland Islands, 14th May,

"Arrived on the 30th April, the Isabella, J. Ross, Esq. Commander; Alexander, Wm. Parry, Esq. And on the 1st of May, arrived the Dorothea,—Buchan, Esq. Commander; the Trent,— Franklin, Esq. Commander. The Isabella and the Alexander sailed on the 3d May for Davis Straits; and the Dorothea and Trent, on the 10th of May for Greenland."

SHIP NEWS.

The Phaeton, Liverpool, and Topaze frigates, are fitting for the East India station, to releive the Orlando, Magicienne, and another frigate, whose period of service is expired.

On Monday the Iphigenia, Captain Hyde Parker, arrived at Portsmouth from Plymouth, fitted to take his Grace the Duke of Richmond, Governor-General of Canada, and suite, to Quebec.

The Eden, 28, Captain Loch, sailed from Plymouth on Tuesday, for the East Indies.

The contest at Wootten Basset is the most severe ever known in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Nearly all the respectable persons in the town give their support to Mr. Wray and Mr. Twiss.

THE STATESMAN.

JUNE 17, 1818.

Captain Fitz Clarence arrived yesterday morning in town with dispatches overland from India.

JUNE 18.

EAST INDIA HOUSE, JUNE 17.

MR. HUDLESTON AND COL. WILKS.

Mr. Hudleston said, he was desirous to lay before the Proprietors a Report which he had drawn up and submitted to the Court of Directors, on the 30th ult. It related to the accusation made against him in Col. Wilks's History of the South of India. He hoped it would be found to be a complete refutation of that statement. But, should he be disappointed in that hope, it would be his duty, as he had already intimated, to retire from the Direction without a murmur. He then moved—

"That the letter written on the 30th ult. to the Court of Directors by John Hudleston, Esq. be now read--and that Copies of it should afterwards be left open at that House for the perusal for the Proprietors."

The letter, which was exceedingly long, went into a history of the Peace of Mangalore, to negociate which with Tippoo, in 1784, Mr. Sadlier, Sir G. Staunton, and Mr. Hudleston were appointed Commissioners—and denied, in the most decided terms (the denial being supported by a chain of argument, drawn from circumstances, and strengthened by documents), the accusation made in Colonel Wilks's book, against Mr. Hudleston and Sir G. Staunton, on the authority of a native menial servant, viz. that, fearful of personal violence, they had planned their escape to a ship in Mangalore-roads, and intended to leave Mr. Sadlier and their attendants to their fate.

The document having been read—

Sir. H. Russell said, when he considered the way in which Mr. Hudleston had been re elected, not a single scratch having been placed against his name, he could not for a moment, doubt but that the Proprietors were perfectly satisfied of his innocence.—With this feeling, it would be as well if an extinguisher were now put on the business.

Mr. Hudleston said, he had given a pledge to the Proprietors—that pledge he had redeemed—it remained for them to act as they pleased—and, with their permission, he would withdraw.

Mr. Hume, who introduced the question originally to the Court, defended himself from the imputation of having made an attack on the Honourable Director. He had, in fact, brought the subject forward to enable the Hon. Director to rebut the charge, if possible.

Mr. R. Jackson paid a very high compliment to the character of Mr. Hudleston—but expressed his opinion that the subject could not rest here. It would be necessary for the Court to come to a vote upon it.

The letter was then ordered to lie on the table—and, on the motion of Mr. Hume, several documents, connected with the subject, were ordered to be produced for the perusal of the Proprietors.

The Court then adjourned.

A letter is stated to have been received at Paris from the French Consul at Cadiz, containing intelligence from South America, which, if true, will give an entirely new aspect to the state of affairs in that country. The following is given as an extract from that letter:—"You doubtless know as well as we that the King of Portugal has declared himself Chief of the Buenos Ayres Insurgents, and that his son has been proclaimed King of Peru, and has adopted the Constitution established by the Peruvians."

Private letters from France and Ireland represent the heat in these countries as excessive. The streets and roads are nearly deserted in the middle of the day, at which time few persons are seen out of doors who are not compelled by necessary business.

GENERAL ELECTION.

Berks.—Mr. C. Dundas and Mr. R. Neville again offer for the country. Mr. W. Hallet again tenders his services as representative, in pursuance of a promise made at the last General Election. Mr. Hallett supports the principle of parliamentary reform.

Berwick on Tweed has no less than 4 candidates competing for the honour of representing it,—namely, Col. Allan and Col. S. Paul (the late Members), Lord Ossulston and Lieut.-General Campbell. The two first have been busily employed during the week in soliciting their friends for a continuation of their support, and vindicating themselves in the best manner they could for not complying in one or two instances with the request of their constituents. On Tuesday, Lord Ossulston, on his well-known and independant principles, recommenced an active canvass General Campbell was expected on Friday.

Beverley—Mr. Wharton is expected here from day to day, and his election is considered secure. Charles Forbes, Esq. the colleague of the above Gentleman, offers himself for a set of Scotchburgns.

Bossiney.—Sir Charles Blunt, Bart has offered himself as a candidate to represent the Borough, upon the independent interest.

Breconshire.—This county will be strenuously contested by Mr. Charles Morgan and Colonel [illegible]. The Colonel's friends have determined [illegible] voters in their several [illegible]

General Grosvenor and Lord Belgrave being returned to Parliament for this city, at the present election.

Chippenham.—Exertions are making at this place to restore the independence of the borough. The Marquis of Blandford has accepted the spontaneous invitation of a large body of the electors.

Cumberland.—This county, it is reported, will be contested: an advertisement to that effect has appeared in the Carlisle Paper. The new candidate has not declared his name.

Denbigh—It is reported that John Wynne Griffiths, Esq. of Garn, opposes Lord Kirkwall, for the Borough of Denbigh! also that the county of Flint will be contested.

Exeter.—The candidates for the city are Mr. Courtnay, Mr. Newman, and Mr. Northmore. Lord Cochrane travels to Exeter, to vote for the latter. For the County the contest will be tremendous, between Mr Bastard and Lord Ebrington. A Ladies' subscription is talked of for the former. Fifteen polling places are to be opened at this election.

Glamorganshire.—The Hon. W. B Grey has announced himself a candidate.—Lord James Stuart, brother to the Marquis of Bute, and L. W. Dillwyn, Esq. of Penllergare, are actively canvassing the several boroughs, and a sharp contest is expected.

Grantham.—Sir William Manners is so vigorously opposed at Grantham by Sir G. P. Welby, that the odds are became considerably against him.

Glocester.—The Guise and Somerset families will be active for the representation of the county of Glocester.

Haverfordwest.—Lord Kensington has declined offering himself again for Haverfordwest, in consequence of which Col. Scourfield will probably be returned for that Borough.

Hereford.—The election for Hereford and Herefordshire, commenced yesterday; both promise severe contest.

Herts.—The Hon. T. Brand and Sir J. Sebright are unopposed for the county.—The borough of Hertford will, it is understood, return the [illegible] without a contest.—The Lord Mayor [illegible] for St. Alban's, and a repetition of [illegible] is expected.

Helston.—Tuesday, Lord James Townsh[illegible] Hatton passed through Truro, for Helston. They [illegible] as candidates on the interest of the Duke of Leeds. The contest between the Duke and a Cornish Baronet, is expected to be very sharp.

Hull.—Wooler on leaving Coventry proceeded to Hull, from whence he had received an invitation to stand; it is expected he will get there time enough to return by the first coach that leaves for London. The friends of Mr. Staniforth have resolved to support his re election free of expence to himself, and have entered into a most hearty subscription for that purpose. The amount subscribed exceeds £12,000. Mr. Graham, son of Sir James Graham, of Netherby, has offered himself as candidate to represent the town on of Hull.

Knaresborough.—Mr. Tierney comes into the next Parliament for Knarse borough.

Launceston.—Sir Manasseh Lopes has contrived to put the good people of Launceston and Newport in a flutter; having started two candidates for each of these places, in opposition to the interest of the Duke of Northumberland. His Grace, it appears, has been rather sparing of his favor, and a general discontent has been excited. The right of voting is very confined at Launceston; there being but fourteen electors; but in Newport it is very extensive, comprising all the free holders, persons paying scot and lot within the borough. Report says, the Baronet will run the Duke hard.

Liverpool.—The candidates for this borough are the Right Hon. George Canning, Gen. Gascoyne, and the Earl of Sefton. General Gascoyne arrived here in the early part of last week, and has since been engaged in an active canvass.

Middlesex.—The election for the county is fixed for Friday the 26th, at Brentford; Mr Byng and Mr. Mellis again stand and are to be opposed by Mr. Clarke, of Swaithley-house.

Milbourne Port.—At Milbourne Port, the contest is expected to be a severe one; the arrival of the opposition gentlemen has put the town all in a bustle.

Newcastle.—An article dated June 16, says, "The elections in this neighbourhood will take place as follow:—For Newcastle on Thursday next; for the city of Durham, on Wednesday next; for the county of Durham, on Wednesday the 24th instant; and for the county of Northumberland, on Saturday the 27th inst.

Norfolk.—A Meeting of County Gentlemen was to be held yesterday at Norwich, to decide upon the propriety of opposing Mr. E. Wodehouse. Philip Hamond, Esq. is the Gentleman who we believe will be proposed.

Pembrokeshire.—This county is not at present likely to be disturbed.—Mr. Allen, of Cressilly, will most probably be returned without opposition by the boroughs of Pembroke, Temby, and Wiston, vacated by Mr. Jones, who opposes Mr. Campbell in Carmarthen.

Penryn.—The contest for the this borough is likely to be very severe. Mr. Anderton, son of a London banker, has received the support of the corporation, in addition to that of Lord De Dunstanvile. Mr. Swann, the present member, endeavours to stand on the ground of services rendered to Penryn in particular, and to the county generally.

Plymouth.—The candidates for the honour of representing the borough of Plymouth, are Sir W. Congreve, Sir C. M. Pole, and T. B. Martin, Esq. Comptroller of the Navy. The latter is a new candidate: Sir Wm. Congreve was lately elected in the room of Sir B. Bloomfield.

Radnorshire.—No opposition ex[illegible] or Borough.

Reading.—On W[illegible] vre was

Thursday. A striking feature in his procession w[illegible] an enormous loaf, weighing seven hundred pounds, ornamented with popular devices.

Tregoney.—At Tregoney some serious electioneering disturbances have taken place, in consequence of which a number of special constables were sworn in; but this measure not having the desired effect, a detachment of hussars was called in, before whose arrival the rioters had dispersed.

Truro.—The candidates for the borough of Truro, in consequence of the retirement of the late Members, Sir G. Warrender and Mr. Dashwood, are Lord Fitzroy Somerset, brother to the Duke of Beaufort, Mr. Tomling, eldest son of the Bishop of Lincoln, and General Sir Henry Vivian.

Warwick (County).—The nomination for the county of Warwick took place yesterday, at Warwick Castle; for which county, Sir Charles Mordaunt and Dugdale Stratford Dugdale, Esq. the late Knights, will, it is said, be returned without opposition.

Westmoreland.—The Westmoreland election will commence on the 30th instant.

York.—Mr. Stuart Wortley has offered himself as a Candidate for the representation of the county of York. It is for Northallerton, not for York, that Lord Lascelles will sit, if he persist in resigning the seat for Yorkshire. The election is fixed for the 25th instant.

York (City).—A third candidate has started for the city of York, in the person of Colonel Wm. Brean Cooke, who was sent for from London, by a strong party of the freemen, in avowed opposition to Sir M. Sykes.

IRISH ELECTIONS.

County of Antrim.—Lord Yarmouth has declined coming into Parliament again for this County. Sir Ulysses Burgh and Col. Latouche, may possibly divide the remaining part which has not yet, we believe, been accertained. The canvass is going on with great activity."

County Kilkenny.—The Hon. James Butler, the late Member, has addressed the Electors.

County Limerick.—Standish O'Grady, Esq. the Lord Chief Baron's son, has addressed the Electors.

County Tipperary.—General Mathew has proceeded to Thomastown upon his personal canvass. Mr. Prittle has arrived in Dublin, on his way to the County of Tipperary. The Cloamel Herald of the 18th inst. states, that Lord Cahir, the new candidate, is on his way from London.

County Donegal will be warmly contested.—General Hart, Lord Clonmore, and Lord Mount-Charles are the Candidates.

County Clare.—The Candidates are Sir Edward O'Brien, Colonel Fitzgerald, and the Right Hon Vesey Fitzgerald.

County of Waterford will not be contested.

County of Wexford.—Messrs. Colclough and Carew have addressed the Electors.

Queen's County.—There is likely to be a smart contest in this County. Mr. W. W. Pole is arrived, and Sir Charles Coote has made formidable preparations for the approaching conflict. Sir Henry Parnell, it is thought will come in without a contest, so that the contest will be between W. W. Pole and Sir C. Coote.

County Leitrim—Will be contested by Mr. Luke White. The late member, Mr. C[illegible] resigns, but his brother has offered himself in his place. Mr. John Latouche, of course, will [illegible]

A Ministerial of Paper of Friday, again adverts to the story of a sailor belonging to the Vansittart East Indiaman, having twice visited Longwood, whilst that vessel was at St. Helena. It says---"The Report of a seaman having found his way to Longwood, Buonaparte's residence, and back, gains credit. It added, that he had belonged to the Northumberland, which conveyed Buonaparte to St. Helena and had been employed in making some roads to Longwood.---Upon his return to St. Helena, he went on shore in the boat, climbed the rocks, and got to Longwood, where he passed some time with the domestics, and saw and conversed with Buonaparte. ELECTION FRACAS.——Saturday morning the canvassing friends of two of the candidates to represent the city of Westminister in Parliament, happened accidentally to meet at the same house in Parliament-street, the one party being attended by a man wearing a gold-laced hat. Each party solicited the favour of seeing the master of the house, who instantly appeared, and was as quickly assailed by the canvassers, who crammed into his hand cards soliciting his vote and interest for particular individuals. The gentleman, after various attempts, contrived to put a question, as to certain principles entertained by one of the persons whose pretensions were so vigorously supported. This led to an answer, which produced not alone a comparison of claims, but an argument on both sides so warm, that from words the wranglers got to pushing, and from pushing to actual blows. The contest is finally, we understand, to be decided upon the celebrated arena in Westminister-eall.

The City of Oxford will be contested between the late members, J. Lockhart and J. Atkyns Wright, Esqrs. and General St John. [illegible]nkely to take place either for [illegible]the University.

The Prince Regent takes frequent rides in his buggy into the county, in the evenings, dressed in the plainest manner, and generally with only one attendant. In a late excursion with Sir Benjamin Bloomfield, the heat of the weather drove him to seek for some beverage to quench his thirst, at a gardener's cottage by the wayside, where his Royal Highness waited, till his hostess prepared tea for him, of which he partook most heartily----Evening paper.

THE LONDON GAZETTE—June 13.

[This Gazette notifies the following as the Board of Commissioners for the affairs of India: Mr. Canning (President), Lord Castlereagh, Earl Bathurst, Viscount Sidmouth, Lord Liverpool, Mr. Vansittart, Lord Teignmouth, Mr. John Sullivan, Lord Binning, Mr. Sturges Bourne, Viscount Cranborne, and Mr. Horatio Walpole. The last two are appointed in the room of Lord Apsley and Lord Lowther.]

DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT.

His Royal Highness having taken his seat upon the Throne, surrounded by his Ministers, the Great Officers of his House-hold, and other attendants, Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was ordered by His Royal Highness to proceed to the House of Commons to command their attendance. Shortly afterwards the Speaker, in his dress robes, accompanied by a great number of Members, came to the Bar. The Speaker delivered at the Bar the following speech:

"May it please your Royal Highness,—We his Majesty's faithful Commons, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, attend your Royal Highness with our last Bill of Supply. In obedience, Sir, to your Royal Highness's recommendation, we have not failed to apply our anxious and continued attention to the state of the Public Income and Expenditure,—and heavy, as unquestionably, the weight and pressure still remain upon our Finances, we have the satisfaction to observe that the Revenue, in its most important branches, is gradually and progressively improving.

"Among the various duties, Sir, in which we have been engaged, there is none, perhaps, that could have devolved upon us, more interesting in itself, or more in unison, we are persuaded, with the sincere and unfeigned sentiments of all classes of his Majesty's subjects, than the duty of adopting the necessary mea- [illegible]fulfilment of those engagements, [illegible]graciously Rumbold [illegible] to the Established Church [illegible] this deficiency, we have most readily [illegible] large and liberal assistance, well convinced that the first and dearest interests of this country, its truest happiness, its soundest prosperity, its surest independence, its proudest and most substantial national glory, are all involved and blended intimately and inseparably in the religious and moral habits of its people. The bill, Sir, which it is my duty humbly to present to your Royal Highness, is intituled—'An Act for applying certain monies therein mentioned for the service of the year one thousand eight hundred and eighteen;'—to which, with all humility, we pray his Majesty's Royal Assent." The above bill was received by Mr. Cowper, the deputy clerk of the Parliaments, and the Royal Assent was immediately given to it, and also to the Alien Bill.

His Royal Highness the Prince Regent then delivered from the Throne the speech:—

branches of the Royal family have vi[illegible] Majesty in the course of the week. The [illegible] has frequently rode out in Kew gardens.

WEDNESDAY (Sixth Day).—The ministerial candidate, Sir Murray Maxwell, was this day absent, being confined to his bed by the effects of a violent assault, alleged to have been made on him on his leaving the hustings the preceding evening to proceed to Richardson's coffee-house. The assailant is described as "a tall athletic man, about six feet high, apparently a blacksmith, from his face being blacked with smoke and dirt, short black curled hair and dark eyes. He struck Sir Murray Maxwell on the left temple, about three yards from the westward of the Piazza." Though a number of constables were on the spot, it does not appear that any effort was made to apprehend the ruffian. A reward of 100 guineas has been offered for his discovery. The following hand bills were circulated in the course of the day:—"Sir Murray Maxwell yesterday afternoon, in consequence of a contusion with a stone on the breast, but more especially from the effect of a severe blow on the temple, had some symptoms of a very alarming nature, which continued for several hours; this morning, however, notwithstanding he has passed a very restless night, these symptoms appear to have yielded somewhat to the means adopted for their relief; but he is as yet by no means free from danger.—John M'Leod, James Macdonald, surgeons in attendance. June 24th 1818.

In the evening the following bulletin appeared:—"Sir Murray Maxwell, in consequence of the severe injuries he received on leaving the hustings yesterday, particularly from [illegible] blow on the stomach, and another on the [illegible] passed a very restless night; but thou[illegible] to-day as to be confined to bed, he [illegible] tolerably free from fever, and the fairest h[illegible] are entertained of his safety."

WOOTTON-BASSETT ELECTION.—The circumstances of this contest are, perhaps, the most extraordinary which the present eventful season has produced. The borough of Wotton-Bassett, in which the houses of Villiers and St. John formerly possessed an undisputed influence, had for some years past been disturbed by an attorney named Kibblewhite, who has sold his property there to Mr. Pitt, of Cirencester. The Mayor being a strenuous member of Mr. Pitt's party, by whose band and colours he was daily preceded in his progress to and from the poll, appeared to decide the election by an unusual venturous expedient. The voters who tendered for Colonel Ellison and Mr. Money being only 126 (exclusive of one who was given up by their own Counsel, as claiming to vote for a house which had been already polled), while the voters for Mr. Twiss and Colon[illegible] Wray were 150, it became necessary to str[illegible] off such a number of the latter as would le[illegible] a honourable majority.

The Spanish Commander, De la Torre, had been defeated at Ortez, by General Paez, with the loss of 400 men killed, besides officers. Two thousand of the Patriots were reported to have taken possession of St. Carlos, and to be on the march for Valencia. QUARTERLY REVIEW.

No. XXXV.

WILKS'S SKETCHES OF THE SOUTH OF INDIA

But even these are trifles when compared with the grave and serious charge we have still in reserve against Colonel Wilks;—that, in short, of having traduced, at once, the living and the dead. Two of the three commisioners, who were sent by Lord Macartney to make peace with Tippoo Sultaun, (afraid for their personal safety,) are accused by Colonel Wilks of having secretly concerted a plan to effect their escape on board a ship; of concealing their intention from the other commissioner till they were actually on their way to embark; and of abandoning the officer commanding the escort sent for their protection, four other officers, (one of whom was their own aide-de-camp,) their guards and other attendants, to their fate:—a fate which could not be doubtful at the hands of the ferocious tyrant who, we are told had already caused three gibbets to be erected, one before the tent of each of the commissioners. Colonel Wilks finds no intimation in the official records of any such intention on the part of the commissioners, but this does not satisfy him—he met with something about a white handkerchief which led General Macleod to an unwarrantable and unjustifiable assertion of an intended escape; and, this 'mystery' induced the historian to institute further inquiry, the result of which, 'founded on high and incontrovertible living authority,' is to prove that the atrocious intention of sacrificing a party of innocent persons, sent expressly as a guard to those commissioners, is true, and that it was only prevented by a premature discovery.—(ii. p. 514—517).

The two commissioners thus calumniated were the late Sir George Staunton and Mr. Huddlestone. The latter is not only still living, but holds, we believe, a seat [illegible] in the direction of the East India Company; and we take it for granted he will find it necessary to wipe off the stain, or failing to do that, to resign a situation for which he would be utterly disqualified. If we had not daily examples to prove how little we are apt to profit by the errors of others, we should have thought that the recent fate of Sir Nathaniel Wraxall might have cured authors from indulging a propensity to 'develope mysteries' at the expense of private reputation.

With regard to Sir George Staunton, we can speak with more decision; for we happen to have known him well: he was a man totally unacquainted with personal fear, and on all occasions of hardship or danger, less solicitous about his own comfort and safety, and more so for those of the persons about him, than almost any other man.—The respect we bear his memory emboldens us to challenge the 'living authority,' careless how 'high' it may be, to produce his 'incontrovertible' proof for the tale he has so circumstantially told, and Col. Wilks (to say the least of it) so indiscreetly published.
